The National Association of Health Services Executives Announces its Partnership with Korn Ferry Charitable Foundation's Leadership Development Program

The National Association of Health Services Executives (NAHSE) is proud to announce its partnership with the Korn Ferry Charitable Foundation's Leadership U for Humanity program to help end underrepresentation in healthcare leadership. "This is NAHSE's opportunity to become a catalyst for change that is long overdue within healthcare leadership. We are excited to join the Korn Ferry Charitable Foundation's vision to develop one million diverse new leaders," said Executive Consultant, Cynthia Washington.

Leadership U for Humanity is a leadership program developed to shift the tides of opportunity for talented, underrepresented groups in business. The goal of this program is to equip and elevate individuals with the skills to ignite leadership potential. NAHSE will work with the Foundation to identify high potential individuals and offer them the opportunity to embark on a journey of personal and professional leadership development.

Program participants embark on a six-month learning journey, including self-guided learning, live virtual classes, personal coaching, peer interactions and mentorship. Participants will begin to better understand their leadership profile and how to activate their potential.

"Having passionate community partners is a large part of what makes the Leadership U for Humanity program successful. We are pleased that NAHSE has chosen to become a partner. Together we look forward to making a positive impact toward supporting and developing black leadership in healthcare," Jean-Marc Laouchez, Program Leader of the Korn Ferry Charitable Foundation.
